Activists bottle outrage

Protesters offer tainted water to oil investors

By ALICIA FOX
for Metro Calgary

Most wouldn't turn down a free bottle of water, unless of course it's straight from a lake said to be contaminated with arsenic and mercury due to oil sand production.

That water, from the lake near Fort Chipewyan and the Athabasca River, was offered to international investors and members of the Canadian Association of Petroleum Producers (CAPP) by environmental protestors yesterday as they came down from a meeting at the Hyatt.

"We're here to tell the investing community that if they're investing in the oil sands, they're investing in something that comes with an increasing price tag," said Mike Hudema from Greenpeace Canada.

Lionel Lepine from the Chipewyan aboriginal community said even the kids are wary about swimming in the lake and eating fowl or fish from the area.

"Our whole tradition and way of life is in jeopardy," Lepine said.

But Ross Levin, an investor from New York who came out to see what was going on, said while there are real environmental issues, he's not sure it would be economically wise to immediately halt oil sands production.

"If environmental activists want to change the system, they will have to bear the economic consequences," he said.

Ross Levin,
New York oil investor

Pierre Alvarez, president of the CAPP, said that there are regulations in place to minimize impact and, in the short term, he sees no alternative means of fossil fuels to meet demands.

As for the water, Alvarez said he "would have no hesitation drinking (treated) water from any municipality anywhere in the province."

Oil spills into river

Crews respond to leaking pipeline

By DAN SINGLETON
Sundre Round Up

A pipeline rupture north of Sundre, 130 kilometres north-west of Calgary, and spilled between 75 and 125 barrels of oil into the Red Deer River on Sunday night, company and government officials said. Alberta Energy Resources Conservation Board says the leak was detected at about 10:30 p.m. from the sweet crude oil pipeline licensed to Pembina Pipelines.

The leak was isolated and the flow of oil stopped as soon as the problem became known, AERC said.

wildlife

» Cheryl Robb, spokesperson for Alberta Environment, said there have been no reports of fish or other wildlife killed.

Les Swelin, with Pembina in Sundre, said recent high water caused the river to change channels, which, in turn, may have undermined the pipeline.

It is not immediately known when crews will attempt to dig up the pipeline, said Swelin.

Tom Jackson, whose farm is located on the west bank Workers with Alberta Environment and Pembina Pipelines carry booms into the water yesterday to help contain an oil spill that spread to Gleniffer Lake.

of the river at the site, says his family noticed a strong smell of gas early Sunday evening.

"We noticed it around 9:30 or maybe a little earlier. The smell just gradually got a little worse," said Jackson.

Following the leak, an oil sheen was detected on Gleniffer Lake, about 33 kilometres down stream from the leak site.

Booms were being deployed at the lake and Pembina started removing oil yesterday afternoon.

Cheryl Robb, spokesperson for Alberta Environment, says users and residents have been told to stay off the lake until further notice.

"Our priority is to contain the spill and to get the product off the lake," she said.

"We are monitoring to make sure that the drinking water facilities downstream aren't affected."

Stabbing, robbery spark hunt

By KRISTA SYLVESTER
Metro Calgary

City cops are investigating two separate violent incidents early Sunday that left one man in hospital with stab wounds.

Around 2 a.m. Sunday a 27-year-old man was stabbed in the lower abdomen three times on the corner of 16 Ave. and 12 St. SW.

In an unrelated incident, two men armed with a knife walked into the Shell gas station in the 500 block of 10 St. NW and demanded an undisclosed amount of money.

» The stabbing victim was rushed to hospital in life-threatening condition but has since been upgraded to stable.

Police are looking for a native male, six foot one, with a slim build, shaved head and wearing a grey long-sleeved T-shirt with dark stripes, black track pants and black runners with a white toe box. He was wearing a camouflage bandana and sunglasses.

Police are also looking for another native male, five foot eight, with a medium build, short dark hair, wearing a black and grey plaid jacket, light blue jeans and white shoes.

Contradiction in vehicle sales statistics

Group president says StatsCan, magazine differ

By KRISTA SYLVESTER
Metro Calgary

Calgary cars are still driving off the lot despite a Statistics Canada report stating vehicle sales in Alberta are down.

Dennis Ducharme, president of the Motor Dealers Association of Alberta, told Metro the StatsCan report is in direct contradiction to the June issue of Canadian Auto World.

"It's definitely different. The magazine said Canadian auto sales are actually up 6.1 per cent due to GST cuts, and also the strength of the Canadian dollar is pressuring retailers to lower costs," he said.

However, the Stats Canada report shows Canadian sales are down 2.6 per cent and in Alberta sales are down by 8.7 per cent.

"What I have seen from visiting dealerships is that they are sitting on a lot less inventory.

"Truck sales are down because of the high cost of gas, but hybrid car sales are up," he added.

Local sales manager for Marlborough Ford Darren

Jacula agreed with Ducharme that there is a trend steering towards smaller cars.

"We are definitely seeing a shift from bigger trucks to smaller SUVs and smaller cars, because of gas prices is probably the biggest reason," Jacula said, adding sales at his dealership are actually up 12 per cent in the past three months.

Park and rides on agenda

Open house on northwest LRT expansion tonight

By NEIL MACKINNON
Metro Calgary

There won't be an outpouring of frustration over elevated lines or security concerns. Access to the northwest LRT expansion from park and ride lots may be the most contentious issue raised tonight when the city hosts an open house on the progress and preliminary plans of the Rocky Ridge/Tuscany extension, said Ald. Dale Hodges.

"This is not like the west LRT leg at all," said Hodges, noting the line is being built right down the median of Crowchild Trail, "where everyone basically expects it should be."

"About the biggest question will be access to the park and rides, which is pretty minor compared to some of the west leg issues."

The $92 million project, which also required the city to purchase seven new LRT railcars at a cost of $28 million, is basically "on schedule," Hodges said.

While construction has yet to begin on the Rocky Ridge/Tuscany extension, the Crowfoot Station currently being built has been hampered by wet weather, Hodges said.

"All the rain we've had has slowed it down a bit, but all the concrete was poured last fall, so I don't think it's too far behind."

The open house is slated to run from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. tonight at the Rocky Ridge Homeowners Centre.

Yoga day raises money for food

Yoga instructor hopes city gets behind good cause

By ALICIA FOX
for Metro Calgary

One Calgary yoga instructor is encouraging Calgarians to extend their energy beyond the yoga mats, or even try out the sport for the first time, to raise money for Calgary Interfaith Food Bank and Project Homelessness Connect.

For a suggested donation of $25 for adult classes and $5 for kids' classes, registrants can take in one of five yoga classes offered in the afternoon of June 21 at Mount Royal College, with a live percussion warm-up at 11 a.m.

"It doesn't really matter who they register for, they're going to get an amazing experience," said Sophie Davies, self-described as "the big fat heart behind it" or, simply, the organizer.

Davies, who says she lives and breathes yoga, has been planning this since December and is excited to see it coming together.

Being that she lives in this city of plenty and has been fortunate to have a comfortable life for herself and her young child, Davies wanted to see some money go to local organizations that were helping out those who haven't prospered in Calgary like she has as a yoga instructor.

"Yoga creates nice strong people," she said. "The ultimate is 'what are you going to do with that strength.' What purpose is it to have a strong, down-ward facing dog?"

Woman charged in daughter's death appears in court

By ROBYN YOUNG

Dozens of angry Bridgewater, N.S. residents crowded outside the town's courthouse yesterday shouting and swearing at Penny Boudreau as police escorted her into a waiting cruiser.

"Murderer! Killer!" echoed through the riverside com-

"You deserve what you did to your daughter," one woman yelled while Boudreau covered her face and hurried from the exit to the car.

About 100 people packed the Bridgewater provincial court room where the 33-year-old made her first appearance on charges of first-degree murder in the death of her 12-year-old daughter Karissa Boudreau.

City bylaw brings Charter challenge

HOMELESS In the first case of its kind heard in Canada, the constitutionality of Victoria's bylaw prohibiting sleeping in parks is being challenged by a number of people who argue they have a right to sleep in public places.

A homeless group argues that in the absence of shelter beds, it's a violation of their Charter rights for the city to ban them from sleeping in city parks and from putting up their own shelters, whether boxes, tents or tarps.

Victoria Mayor Alan Lowe said yesterday that the city is defending the bylaw because municipal leaders are worried about what will happen if the courts rule against city bylaws prohibiting sleeping in parks.

'Super-Earths' discovered

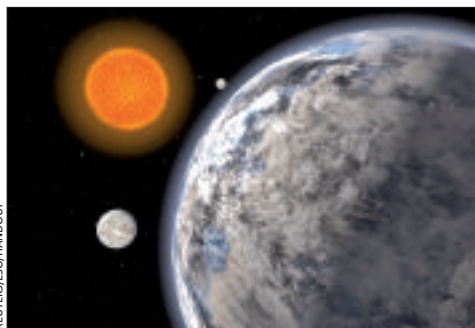

Researchers say Earth-like planets may be common

European researchers said yesterday they discovered a batch of three "super-Earths" orbiting a nearby star, and two other solar systems with small planets as well.

They said their findings, presented at a conference in France, suggest that Earth-like planets may be very common.

"Does every single star harbour planets and, if yes, how many?" asked Michel Mayor of Switzerland's Geneva Observatory. "We may not yet know the answer, but we are making huge progress towards it," Mayor said in a statement.

The trio of planets orbit a star slightly less massive than our Sun, 42 light-years away towards the southern Doradus and Pictor constellations. A light-year is the distance light can travel in one year at a speed of 300,000 km a second, or about 9.5 trillion km.

The planets are bigger than Earth — one is 4.2 times the mass, one is 6.7 times and the third is 9.4 times. They orbit their star at extremely rapid speeds — one whizzing around in just four days, compared with Earth's 365 days, one taking 10 days and the slowest taking 20 days.

Mayor and colleagues used the High Accuracy Radial velocity Planet Searcher or HARPS, a telescope at La Silla observatory in Chile, to find the planets.

35 militants dead in Afghanistan

Violence still on the rise thanks to Taliban comeback

Afghan and U.S.-led coalition forces, backed by air support, have killed 35 insurgents in the south of the country in two separate clashes, the U.S. military said yesterday.

Violence has surged in Afghanistan since 2006 when the ousted Taliban made a comeback, with nearly 13,000 people killed during the period.

In one of the engagements, 20 militants were killed on Sunday after they attacked a joint patrol of Afghan and coalition forces

cross-border threat

» Afghan President Hamid Karzai's threat of a cross-border pursuit of militants is more of a tactic to build pressure on Pakistan than a signal of real intent, analysts said yesterday. Unnerved by Pakistan's efforts to make peace with militants in its tribal areas, Karzai made the warning on Sunday after the Taliban launched a bold and successful mass jailbreak in Kandahar in southern Afghanistan. The Pakistan Foreign Ministry lodged a strong protest about Karzai's statement yesterday.

in Zabul province, the U.S. military said in a statement.

In the second incident, the militants attacked a joint patrol of foreign and Afghan forces on Saturday in Helmand province which too lies in the south and is part of the Taliban's main bastion, another statement said.

Air support was used in both encounters and there were no casualties among Afghan or foreign forces, it added.

Removed from power in 2001, the al Qaeda-backed Taliban could not immediately be reached for comment.

Same-sex couples wed

Move might cause other states to define marriage

California performed its first legally recognized same-sex weddings yesterday and opened its doors to gay and lesbian couples from around the country, a move likely to challenge other states that define marriage as between a man and a woman.

Octogenarians Del Martin and Phyllis Lyon took the first vows in San Francisco's ornate City Hall in a ceremony presided over by Mayor Gavin Newsom.

The two, who have been together for more than 50 years, were also the first to be married in 2004, during the "Winter of Love" when about 4,000 same-sex couples exchanged vows. Courts overturned those particular unions, but last month the state Supreme Court struck down a ban on homosexual marriage. That ruling went into effect late on Monday.

"When we first got together, we weren't really thinking about getting married," Lyon said to a small crowd that laughed, cheered, and threw red rose petals.

Southern California couple Robin Tyler and Diane Olson, two of the plaintiffs in the state Supreme Court battle, exchanged vows in Beverly Hills, where for years they had petitioned unsuccessfully for a marriage license.

Avoid torch run: China

Relay passing into Muslim region

Authorities in China's troubled far-western region of Xinjiang are telling people who want to watch the Olympic torch as it passes through the area to stay at home and tune into the television instead.

In other parts of China spectators have thronged streets to get a glimpse of the torch relay, but in Xinjiang they have been banned from climbing trees or collecting on bridges under which the flame will pass, state media said yesterday.

The steps are a measure of the sensitivity which surrounds Xinjiang, an oil-rich border region which is home to the Muslim Uighur people. Beijing blames some Uighurs for a series of attacks in the name of agitating for an independent state.

"Considering that too many people will cause a lack of safety, we are recommending that everyone watches on the television from home," the official Xinjiang Daily quoted the Communist Party boss of the region's sports administration, Li Guangming, as saying.

Wireless prices to drop: Rogers

Upcoming release of iPhone setting stage for changes

Wireless prices are set to fall at the country's biggest carrier just in time for the Canadian launch of the data-hungry iPhone.

Nadir Mohamed, the chief operating officer of Rogers Communications Inc., said yesterday that wireless rates will "evolve" as subscribers begin using their cellphones for more than just talking — a trend that's expected to gain traction once Apple Inc.'s iPhone is available to Canadians through Rogers on July 11.

While some had expressed concern that high wireless data rates might limit the

Centro to be sold

Analysts have credited the iPhone for drawing consumer attention to the entire smartphone category, which also includes devices made by Waterloo's Research in Motion Ltd., Nokia Oyj and Palm Inc. Rogers said yesterday it also will sell Palm's Centro model.

iPhone's appeal in Canada, Mohamed said Rogers will unveil new pricing models in the coming weeks that are intended to "drive adoption" of such devices.

Mohamed said it's unfair to criticize Rogers' existing rates because they were designed when cellphones were used mainly for voice conversations and text messages.

Woods battles through bad knee, playoff to win third U.S. Open title Tiger Woods held off a late comeback by fellow American Rocco Mediate and sporadic knee pain to win his 14th major title in a nailbiting playoff for the U.S. Open yesterday.

The world No. 1, three shots ahead after 10 holes, slipped to one behind playing the last before triumphing in sudden-death with a regulation par at the 19th hole on the South Course at Torrey Pines.

Woods, who birdied the par-five 18th to match Mediate's level-par round of 71, sealed his third U.S. Open victory with a two-putt par at the seventh where his birdie attempt from 25 feet fell inches short.

Mediate bogeyed the hole after driving into a fairway bunker and pulling his approach into the left rough 100 yards short of the green. After reaching the green in three, he failed to sink the par putt from 20 feet.

"Today was just unreal," a beaming

Tiger Woods kisses the trophy after beating Rocco Mediate in the playoff round of the U.S. Open golf championship at Torrey Pines in San Diego yesterday.

Woods said in a greenside television interview after joining his childhood idol Jack Nicklaus as the only player to win each of the four majors at least three times.

"It was back and forth, back and forth and 90 holes wasn't enough. We had to go one more."

Sutter has eye on Flames' future

GM calls 2008 best draft in years

By LAURENCE HEINEN
for Metro Calgary

Barring any trade activity, the Calgary Flames will pick 17th overall in the first round of the 2008 National Hockey League Entry Draft on Friday night in Ottawa.

That's the highest pick for the Flames since they selected defenceman Dion Phaneuf 19th overall in 2003.

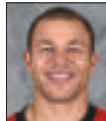

"With this being probably the best draft since Phaneuf's year in terms of the depth of it all, I think that's significant," said Calgary general manager Darryl Sutter yesterday at the Saddledome.

Sutter doesn't expect to be able to make a trade with the Tampa Bay Lightning for an opportunity to pick highly-touted forward Steven Stamkos or even with the Los Angeles Kings, the Atlanta Thrashers, the St. Louis Blues or the New York Islanders, who hold down the second through fifth selections.

"There's not much sense talking to them unless we want to give up Phaneuf or Iginla," Sutter said. "I'm sure that there's a small faction here that would do that, but I won't."

Iginla

With captain Jarome Iginla, goalie Miikka Kiprusoff and both Phaneuf and Robyn Regehr signed to long-term contracts, Sutter said the team has made a commitment to ice a competitive squad for years to come.

"We're trying to be a competitive, top team every year," said Sutter, adding that Calgary's top selection at the draft will likely need three to four years to develop before being ready to play in the NHL. "Unless we pick in the top 10, that's the way it's going to be."

Sutter all but ruled out picking a goalie in the first round and said the club would lean towards selecting a forward with its top selection.

"If it was a saw-off between a defenceman and a forward, we wouldn't take the defenceman," he said. "Chances are that if we stayed at 17 that we'd take a forward there."

Flames closing in on deal for Jokinen

At least two Canadian-based clubs could complete key trades before or during the NHL draft this weekend.

The Senators are offering Ray Emery and the St. Louis Blues, for one, are willing to take the goaltender, his $3-million US salary and his tarnished reputation.

The Calgary Flames, meanwhile, are chatting with Florida about the Panthers' captain, Olli Jokinen, who has been embroiled in a cold war with general manager Jacques Martin. Jokinen, 30, is multi-talented but Martin privately questions his desire.

Jokinen has two years and $10.75-million remaining on a contract he signed in 2006, when Flames coach Mike Keenan was the Panthers' GM.

Tough decisions lay ahead for Stampeders

Head coach all business in camp

By DAN TOTH
for Metro Calgary

First-year Calgary Stampeders head coach John Hufnagel has been all business through the first two weeks of training camp.

The serious tone is reflective of the tough decisions the new boss is faced with while paring his lineup for the upcoming Canadian Football League season. He holds in his hands the fate of some 75 players hoping to win jobs and sorting through the collection of prospects was made even more difficult after a 39-14 steamrolling of the Edmonton Eskimos in the pre-season opener Friday night at McMahon Stadium.

Hufnagel's troops breezed through their first test, proving some painful decisions lay ahead.

"I thought our team responded awfully well to their first test and some good things happened on both sides of the football," said Hufnagel.

"It was a good start but we have a long way to go, obviously."

Almost everything went Calgary's way, complicating Hufnagel's personnel moves leading up to the June 21 deadline for final player cuts.

The Stampeders new-look defence was sensational, albeit against an Eskimos lineup devoid of starting quarterback Ricky Ray and a handful of other bona fide starters.

The revamped unit under new defensive coordinator Chris Jones allowed Esks starter Stefan LeFors to post just 97 yards of offence in the opening half while keeping Edmonton's offence off the board until the final minute of the contest.

The Stamps offensive line, also a focus of concern during camp, enjoyed a successful debut protecting Calgary quarterbacks Henry Burris, Dave Dickenson, Barrick Nealy and Ben Sankey, who took turns piling up 555 yards of offence.

The o-line also impressed with its run-blocking for starting tailback Joffrey Reynolds, who rushed for 54 yards on just four carries. Along with newcomers Ken Simonton, Demetris Summers and Jon Cornish, the ball-carrying foursome piled up close to 300 yards along the ground.

"It was a great building block for our o-line," noted veteran right tackle Jeff Pilon, the longest-serving member of the offensive line.

"To finally get out there in a real game situation felt good. All four of our running backs were great, too. They helped to make us all look good."

Germany, Croatia headed to quarters

BALLACK Germany dashed the dreams of their smaller neighbour Austria yesterday, beating the hopeful co-hosts of Euro 2008 1-0 in their capital and dumping them out of the tournament.

Any Austrian hopes of upsetting the powerful Germans were dashed just after halftime when Germany captain Michael Ballack hit a screaming free kick into the roof of the net for what turned out to be the winner.

In yesterday's other encounter Croatia beat Poland 1-0 with a goal from striker Ivan Klasnic. Croatia, will now play Turkey in the quarter-finals in Vienna on Friday, one day after Germany take on Group A winners Portugal.

No need to drown in student debt

There are some ways to survive paying it all back

As we enter into the summer season, a flock of fresh-faced college and university graduates are embarking on the world — they have big dreams, high spirits, and piles of debt.

Sound familiar? You managed to pull through stats, survive philosophy and become a legend at your neighbour's hot tub bonanza (OK, that might have been one of the Smart Cookies!) but the point is, if you're a graduate of higher education we have faith you can put a plan into action to get rid of that debt and start making the money you deserve!

SMART COOKIES

KNOW WHAT YOU OWE: Knowing how much you owe is the first step in taking control. To track your student loan, log on to the Human Resources Development

Canada website (hrsdc.gc.ca), which will tell you exactly how much you owe and when you are required to start repayment. Also, if you have a Federal Student Loan, you may be eligible for Debt Reduction in Repayment (DRR), a measure designed to help if you have long-term financial difficulties.

MAKE EXTRA PAYMENTS: In B.C. alone, student loans range from a floating rate of prime plus 2.5 per cent or a fixed rate at prime plus 5 per cent. To avoid paying your student loan for the next 15 years, try making extra payments every year towards that loan. This doesn't have to be a huge chunk of money, but even if you start putting away an extra $100-$200 each month, you will have $1,220-$2,400 to put towards your student loan, decreasing the amount of years left to contribute. Treat your student loan like any other type of debt: The faster you pay it down, the faster you can free up your money.

My wife and I are in our mid-30s and have no children. My wife is employed and I am self-employed. Neither she nor I have pension plans. How much should we set aside for retirement?

—ROBERT AND KIM

One person's "shack" is another's castle.

How much of a nest egg an individual needs for retirement depends entirely upon the lifestyle they want.

Statistics have shown the average Canadian male lives to 78 years old and women to 81. Government CPP and OAS will not fund your retirement. Individuals with no private pension will have to save more.

Surveys have shown the average Canadian would be content with about $3,300 per month of retirement income. In today's dollars, an individual may need approxi-

The dollar amount can be scary and discouraging to many young people. Therefore, set small objectives. For example, young adults can start by deducting $150 each paycheque directly into an RRSP. Sounds of alienation

The Awkward Stage has message we can all relate to

By ROB MCMAHON
for Metro Calgary

Contemporary pop culture is packed with conceptions of awkwardness: The Office's satire, the romance of emo or the aw-shucks of John Hughes films.

Shane Nelken — singer-songwriter in Vancouver's The Awkward Stage — loves them all.

"Awkwardness is always there. No matter how confident people seem, there's some scenario that can make their confidence totally end," said Nelken, who is joined on the new album by bandmates Tygh Runyan, Tony Koelwyn and Chris Mitchell. "Too often youth is sentimentalized in songs and pop culture as a glorious time, but I think it was a horrible time."

Nelken's perspective on awkwardness envelops his work. His debut album's cover featured a headgear-sporting Nelken perched beside a blow-up doll. Anime Eyes, a track off Slimming Mirrors, Flattering Lights, references Otaku, a subculture of disaffected Japanese youth that science fiction author William Gibson described as "pathological-techno-fetishist-with-social-deficit" and Nelken as being "disconnected from reality and instead their life is all virtual — that's their world."

Despite generally sounding happy, the new record touches on a consistent theme of alienation and disconnection. For example, the title refers to the effect a strong set has on a photo shoot — a situation also brought up in the song Only Good Days Caught on Camera.

Nelken explained that the idea behind such images was that managing appearances often doesn't address root

"I didn't set out to make a concept album, but most of the songs, if not all of them, deal with things being not quite what they seem," he said. "[They all cover] some form of delusion."

Philosophy aside, in a musical sense Nelken draws inspiration from pop outsiders like Nick Lowe. While such artists stuck to the genre's focus on melody, they also wrote lyrics and music that subverted predictable formats. At the same time, Nelken is conscious of the danger of sounding too clever.

"Nick Lowe (shows that) just because something has a pop melody doesn't mean it has to be devoid of substance," he said. "There's so much punk rock energy running throughout every one of (Lowe's) songs that make it heavier than some punk in a lot of ways."

Making a case for arranged marriage

As little girls, many of us dreamed of our future wedding day, holding dandelions in place of a bouquet as we walked down the imaginary aisle. We had every last detail worked out — or at least every detail a seven-year-old can think of — yet nowhere in this fantasy is the part where our parents or community members decided on our groom. In fact, most of us would prefer to leave our love lives in the hands of chance encounters in grocery stores than allow our parents to do our choosing for us.

But Reva Seth, author of First Comes Marriage, Modern Relationship Advice From The Wisdom Of Arranged Marriages, argues there is a lot we can learn from arranged marriages.

Born in Toronto to South Asian parents who had an arranged marriage, Seth interviewed over 300 women in arranged marriages in what started out as a curiosity on the subject, but later led to research for her book.

The biggest lesson she learned: Haphazard dating can set our dating lives into a tizzy.

"Arranged marriages can prevent unwanted relationships," says Seth, although she is quick to add she doesn't advocate them.

However, in an arranged marriage, people lay out exactly what they are looking for instead of adopting a date-whomever-comes-our-way attitude many of us have to dating, she says.

Her solution — we should tackle dating with a plan. A list of "marriage musts." Those core qualities we simply cannot live without.

She did — five months and seven dates later, she was engaged. Four years later, she is still happily married and has a son.

One item that doesn't

DATING JUNGLE
KASIA IGLINSKI
datingjungle@metronews.ca

make Seth's list of marriage musts is sexual attraction. That, she believes, is something we can create over time. Yet, superficial though it may seem, I believe it's that sexual attraction that helps us handle the bumps on our dating journey. It allows us to muster the courage to ask for a phone number or even a second date. It moves us closer to those "marriage musts" we're meant to be searching for.

Armed with a notepad and a curious mind, Kasia Iglinski's always on the prowl for a good story and a good date.

Refreshing but not joyous

Control/Joy Division

Stars: Ian Curtis

Distributor: Alliance DVD

ALLIANCE IS packaging these two films together, but one day they'll probably be available in a single, Criterion-like edition, to provide an almost definitive take on Joy Division, the band, and Ian Curtis, their tragic lead singer, as they were regarded just over 25 years after the band, and the man, ceased to exist.

In any case, if you want one, you'll probably want both.

Photographer Anton Corbijn focuses on the personal side of Curtis' tragedy by basing the movie on the book written by his widow after his death. It's a refreshing shift in perspective from the one that prevailed among his fans for so many years after Curtis hung himself on the eve of the band's first U.S. tour in 1980 — one that made Curtis the ultimate punk nihilist, taking "we mean it, maaaan!" to the logical conclusion for the author of some of the most despairing lyrics ever set to music.

Corbijn's movie shows that a youthful, impulsive marriage, an affair, and the side effects of epilepsy medication were the more concrete, banal sources of Curtis' emotional turmoil, and the director dramatizes it all in an austere, black-and-white style that evokes British kitchen sink drama of the '60s.

Grant Gee's Joy Division broadens the picture wider, putting Curtis and his band in the context of northern England in the '70s, using a combination of archival footage and interviews with Curtis' bandmates and contemporaries and Annik Honoré, his girlfriend.

The documentary does a great job evoking not just the particular political entropy in England at the time, but the tired, shopworn, pre-apocalyptic feel of the late '70s in general, which was such fertile social ground for the bleakness that inspired Curtis, both creatively and personally.

More painfully, it details how everyone around him completely misread the obvious signals he was giving, either by misinterpreting it as mere art, or through stoic northern male emotional indifference.

Feminism key to role: Davis

Sex And The City interpreted many ways, actress says

By NINA ETTRUP
Metro World News

She is somewhat offended when asked whether her fictional alter ego is not a bit anti-feminist. Because if there's anything that Sex And The City is not, it is anti-feminist, actress Kristin Davis says. Davis is best known for her role as the conservative and romantic Charlotte York on the long-running TV series and in its recent big screen return.

"It's interesting to hear people's perception of and reaction to what we do, and there are a lot of ways of interpreting that, but we would never want to be anti-feminist. We're all feminists — I want to be super clear about that."

Nonetheless, she admits that she was happy when she read the script and discovered that Charlotte is still married to her anti-hero, Harry, the bald lawyer.

"He's amazing. He's not at all the one she expected to be with, but it works. She was completely wrong about what would make her happy," says Davis, 43, who is still single. "There are men like Harry out there — of course there is. I've met them. It's just not always the ones I date."

And even though her own life does not at all resemble Charlotte's nuclear family with husband and child, the actress identifies a lot with her character.

"I'm not interested in playing the trampy type," she says, before correcting herself and saying promiscuous, not trampy.

Saving our kids from on-demand

SO DEMANDING: Single or childless people can attest to the transformation that often overtakes their friends when they have kids — an overwhelming urge to update you on their latest parenting adventures that's both obsessive and boring, and can only partially be blamed on a chronic sleep deficiency that, as the medical textbooks tell us, can lead to psychosis.

During the first few months of their baby's life, parents are grateful for those moments, late at night, when they can unwind in front of the tube, their baby asleep on their shoulder, but as soon as it's obvious that junior has noticed the TV's magic diorama, the anxiety begins, prompted by studies — printed monthly in every parenting magazine — that inform us that just three hours of TV watching a week in the first two years of a child's life will irrevocably damage their chances of getting a scholarship to Yale.

These studies get trotted out on cue in a piece by Joanna Weiss in Sunday's Boston Globe, but only after the writer gets anxious over the much harder-to-quantify effect that DVRs and video-on-demand will have on vulnerable young minds. Weiss begins by waxing nostalgic for the TV of her youth, a life lived "beholden to the television schedule," where she had to watch what was on, only when it was on, and had to suffer through Charlie's Angels reruns after school, because she probably didn't have a few hundred cable channels to choose from or a hard drive full of TiVo'd shows.

What Weiss seems to have forgotten is that this Edenic world flat out sucked — I know because I was there, too. Given the choice between trawling up and down the vast expanse of digital cable until I find something to kill an hour or two — usually the Military Channel or Alton Brown touring diners and truck stops on Food — and a quick circuit of less than a dozen channels that inevitably leads to The Love Boat, I'll take the former.

Weiss recounts the awkward conversation she has with her four-year-old whenever the kid asks to see something that isn't either on the DVR's hard drive or available on demand. I've had that conversation, which Weiss doesn't seem to be able to see as an expression of a child's concept of the eternal now. Time and all its existential implications will impress itself soon enough on her child's mind. Weiss worries, nonetheless that her child is "missing something if she isn't forced to wait for precisely what she wants."

I sometimes think that this inevitable parental recourse to waiting "What about the children?" has been as effective a form of non-pharmaceutical birth control for the childless as kids-eat-for-free nights at restaurants. Weiss' worries about being able to pause a show or choose what you want to watch when you want are only valid if you think that bookmarks and libraries have made reading an activity full of potentially damaging side effects. And if you're so worried, maybe now's the time to go all Amish and kick the TV to the curb — if you dare.

ER producer turns from docs to cops

TV With veteran NBC medical drama ER heading into its 15th and final season, series writer/producer John Wells has set up a new drama series project at the network. NBC has handed out a pilot order to LAPD, an ensemble cop show from John Wells Prods. and Warner Bros. TV.

The project, which has begun casting, is being eyed as a potential successor to ER in NBC's Thursday 10 p.m. time slot. Penned by Emmy-winning writer Ann Biderman, LAPD chronicles the lives of a group of police officers in Los Angeles. ER director/executive producer and frequent Wells collaborator Christopher Chulack is on board to direct the pilot.

Baby in black

Gwen Stefani and husband Gavin Rossdale are painting their new baby nursery black, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

Rossdale, who already has a two-year-old son Kingston with Stefani, has revealed the couple are shunning traditional pastel shades in favour of a gothic theme.

The rocker told America's OK! magazine: "We are going to put him in a black room. It'll be a goth baby so it doesn't matter if it is a boy or a girl."

Despite being tempted, the couple still haven't found out the sex of their unborn baby. Rossdale said: "We don't know if it's a boy or a girl yet."

The British musician has also revealed he and Stefani are having difficulty explaining to Kingston that he will soon have a younger brother or sister.

He said in an interview with website bild.de: "We try to explain the pregnancy to him, but I'm not sure if he understands what's going on. I think the birth of the new baby is going to be a big shock for Kingston!"

Rhys enjoys being single again

Actor Rhys Ifans is in great spirits following his split with ex-fiancée Sienna Miller, according to his co-star Talulah Riley. According to imdb.com, the St. Trinians star, who has been filming new movie The Boat That Rocked with Ifans, insists the Welshman is enjoying being single again — despite recent tabloid speculation he has been seen weeping on the film's set. Riley says, "I don't know what's been in the papers but he was laughing and joking all the time on set. He was just one of the lads, you know. I didn't notice him down or anything."

The couple allegedly parted ways earlier this month, with Miller reportedly dumping Ifans by phone.

McAvoy gives Jolie kissing control

Actor James McAvoy let Angelina Jolie take "control" when they filmed an on-screen kiss for new movie Wanted, imdb.com reports.

The Atonement star admits he was worried about locking lips with the gorgeous actress, but Jolie helped put him at ease by taking charge of the situation.

He says, "I was nervous but after five minutes I thought this is going to be all right, it's cool. She was in very good shape."

"It could be anybody when you're kissing someone on film, you have to make it look good. She's pretty much in control of the situation."

Beckinsale wants derrière film double

Kate Beckinsale has reportedly demanded a body double for her latest film because she feels self-conscious about the size of her bottom, imdb.com reports. The star, 34, allegedly refused to bare her derrière while shooting a shower scene in new movie Whiteout — forcing producers to hire a $2,000 US-a-day model to stand in for the star. A source tells Britain's The Mail On Sunday, "The script called for her character to be filmed nude in a shower, focusing in on her bottom and thighs. Kate insisted on a double being hired. She was quite open on the set about not liking her body and said she particularly loathed her bottom and was not comfortable baring it."
